

BRIEF LOCALS.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1898.

Flagstaff is experiencing a business boom.

The political air is becoming sulphurous.

John Skaggs is up from the Verde valley this week.

Marshal Woody was out of town several days this week.

Frank Hart, a prominent wool grower of Navajo county, was in town Wednesday.

Miss Edith Tolfree left Tuesday for Evanston, Illinois, where she will enter college.

J. W. Weatherford has moved his family in the second story of his new building.

George McAdams returned from Albuquerque yesterday, where he has spent the better part of the week.

Larry Koler, the trusted old stand-by of the Wells-Fargo Express company, was in Flagstaff Monday.

Mrs. D. J. Brannen spent several days this week in Williams, visiting her sister, Mrs. J. X. McDonald.

Frank Gibson, an old time line repairer of the Santa Fe, passed through here Monday bound for Williams.

Charles H. Algert, the Indian trader at Tuba City, returned Monday from a trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles.

J. Knox Corbett in Pima county and Ralph Cameron in Coconino are a pair that cannot be beat as rustlers. They get genuine pleasure out of campaigning. Arizona has no more effective workers, and this year Corbett and Cameron are working with an energy which will result in giving their friends support at the polls which will elect them.—Arizona Republican.

Judge Barnes, who spoke here Monday in the interest of the democratic party, left for his home in Tucson Tuesday.

F. W. Payne, one of Bellemont's enterprising business men, was taking in the sights of Flagstaff the early part of the week.

Mrs. J. G. Bidleman of St. Paul, Minn., who spent a day or two in the Grand Canyon, left Tuesday for Williams, to join her husband.

Gwynne Dennis of Lombard, Goode & Co., was a passenger on No. 1 yesterday on his way to Williams to look after the mining interests of the company.

Felix Weatherford, who has been for the past two years in the employ of Babbitt Bros., will leave in a few days for Nashville, Tennessee, where he will enter college.

A. A. Fisher and family left this week for Phoenix, where they intend spending the winter. They will stop in the Verde valley and Jerome several weeks while on their way to the capital city.

The fact that the great Wallace shows are composed exclusively of the greatest artists known, and that their property is the best ever built for show purposes, ranks it the highest class circus in the world.

Kaiser Frankforter, Jim Cart and M. H. Carley returned from a hunting trip to Clear Creek Wednesday. Kaiser says they killed three deer and hoodles of duck, but they failed to produce a hair or a feather in evidence, but then Nimrods are all truthful. However, we'll take their stories cum granis salts.
